

WEATHER ALERT

Snow moving in...forecast remains on track... A band of moderate snow is overspreading the area. This snow lasts about an hour, drops a quick 0.5-1.0" (on all surfaces given the cold temperatures) and then we get into a brief lull mid-afternoon. This lull does not last long, as the next push of steady moderate precipitation arrives 4 - 5 PM. This will mostly be a dense, wet snow though may also mix with sleet at times. Regardless of the exact precipitation type, this will re-cover surfaces in a fairly dense accumulation, with another 1.5 - 3.0" of accumulation expected from this second wave (for a storm total of 2 - 4"). Precipitation tapers off or changes to rain between 8 - 10 PM (leaning closer to 10 than 8). Sprinkles (or perhaps a brief mixed shower) can linger through the overnight. Temperatures will slowly warm above freezing this evening, and overnight likely peak at 35 - 40.

OVERVIEW

Start Time	End Time	Total	Snow/Sleet Confidence
Ongoing	Saturday 8:00 PM - 10:00 PM (Leaning Late) Ends or just to plain rain	2.0 - 4.0" Snow/Sleet	1.0 - 2.0"	20%
			2.0 - 4.0"	55%
			4.0 - 6.0"	25%

HAZARDS

Hazard	Threat	Description
Ice	Minimal	Watch for some patchy ice in the evening before temperatures eventually climb above freezing (mainly towards 287).
Snowfall Rate	Moderate	Initial wave of snow is briefly moderate...another push of moderate snow (possibly mixed with sleet) expected this evening 4-9 PM.

FORECAST

Saturday	Steady, moderate snow through 2-3 PM...after a brief easing, steadier snow (perhaps mixed with sleet) returns towards 4 - 5 PM and continues into the evening. 1.0 - 2.5" of Snow Temps rise thru 20s, 30 - 33 late Winds become S-SE 5 - 10 mph
Sat Night	Steady wet snow / sleet mix tapers off and changes to rain 8 - 10 PM. A few light / intermittent rain or mixed showers can linger overnight. 1.0 - 1.5" of Snow/Sleet (Additional; Storm Total 2 - 4") Temps rise to 35 - 40 overnight SE shift SW winds 5 - 15 mph, gusts to 20 mph
Sunday	Intervals of clouds & sun. Windy, with a sprinkle or flurry in the morning...only flurries by afternoon. Temps settle into the mid or upper 30s West wind 12 - 25 mph, gusts 30 - 35 mph
Sun Night	Some flurries possible before 2 AM, otherwise variably cloudy, cold & becoming less breezy. Low near 20 (Wind chill 5 - 10) NW Wind 10 - 20 mph, gusts to 30 mph
Monday	Partly to mostly sunny. Cold. High near 30

Forecaster: James Sullivan

Next Update: As Necessary